History

The story of the Bryanston backpack is tied to the evolution of its namesake suburb. Initially developed in the late 1960s and named after a village in the UK Bryanston grew into a significant hub for both luxurious, leafy residential estates and prominent corporations. This unique duality—of tranquil living and powerful commerce—inspired our design. The Bryanston backpack embodies this balance, created for the individual who navigates both worlds with style and purpose.

Sustainability

Our commitment to sustainability is rooted in the principle of longevity. This piece is designed and made to be long-lasting, crafted from durable full-grain hide that grows more beautiful with age. For our interior lining, we use poly-cotton, a strong material that is not only resistant to shrinkage and fading but is also recyclable. By creating a product that endures, we advocate for a philosophy of buying better and keeping longer.

Product Care

To preserve the beauty of your full-grain leather backpack, we recommend protecting it from humidity and direct sources of heat. Should the leather get wet, gently dab it with a soft, light-coloured absorbent cloth. The natural hide requires minimal maintenance, but a quality leather conditioner can be used sparingly to maintain its supple character. When not in use, store your backpack in the provided dust bag to protect its shape and finish.

Gifting

Presented in our signature packaging, the Bryanston backpack makes an unforgettable gift. Whether celebrating a professional milestone, a graduation, or a significant personal achievement, it is a gesture of timeless style and enduring quality. Each piece represents a commitment to craftsmanship, making it a truly special item to give and to receive.

Our Assurance

Designed and crafted in South Africa, the Bryanston is a testament to lasting quality. We provide a 3-year guarantee on all stitching and a 5-year guarantee on the hide itself, assuring a piece that will not only last but become a cherished part of your personal history.
